| ARMOR CLASS     | HIT POINTS | DAMAGE THRESHOLD | SPEED   | CARGO   | AIR      |
| 19 (+Plating I) | 250        | 20               | ~45 ft. | 20 tons | 120 days |

Damage threshold: a single hit under 20 does nothing to the hull. Speed: Trader 55 ft., minus 10 ft. for the Sturdy hull, plus 5 ft. from the Trim Rig, which also holds attitude when unhelmed. 100 million miles/day in open space.

Current HP:  / 250

Crew 11 (running with 7); one seat is always the helm
Hull Sturdy Trader, Danforth Certified Hulls (prior-service)
Helm Coilworks Mk IV (standard); piloting requires an attuned spellcaster holding concentration (Intelligence save to maintain it)
Mobility Trim Rig (+5 ft., holds attitude unhelmed)
Life Support none beyond base air envelope

| Ram (blunt) | One attack, no weapon crew required | Hull's listed ram damage | Half the dealt damage comes back to the Night Fury, after her own damage threshold.                  |

Crew Stations

Pilot Flying is free. One maneuver per round: Evasive Action, Full Burn, Ram, or Boarding Action.
Gunner Crews a ballista. See the weapons table for the action-economy math.
Engineer Emergency Patch: Technology or Intelligence DC 12, ship regains HP equal to the engineer's level, once per encounter.
Coordinator Once per round: grant advantage, impose disadvantage, or let a station act again out of order.

Reactive Repair (Tack, if aboard). When the ship takes damage exceeding its damage threshold, reduces that damage by 10.
She Talks Back. Not a mechanical trait. Tack will insist otherwise.
